Beginner Balance

Hold on the whole time

Stand beside a counter or a heavy chair. Clear the floor of loose rugs and cords. A second chair behind you can be a place to sit. You do not earn anything by letting go.
Seated alternative: sit tall and march slowly, or turn your head a little while your back is supported. That still counts as practice.
Stop if something hurts, makes you dizzy, or does not fit a limit from your clinician. This is education, not a personal exercise plan.

- Shift your weight from one foot to the other while both hands can reach the counter.
- Lift one heel while holding on. Skip it if the ankle hurts.
- Place one foot ahead of the other and take a few small steps, still holding on. Stop if you feel unsteady.
- Sit and rest whenever you want. Rest is part of the practice.

Safety

CDC describes balance examples for older adults and says activity should match your abilities. This page is not a test of fall risk. Pain, dizziness, chest pain, or trouble breathing needs a clinician or emergency services, not another step.

Educational only. lifeZoi does not diagnose, treat, or promise a result.
It does not promise a longer life.
Read it in lifeZoi: /library/guides/beginner-balance